

GOT $1,000 FOR HIS VOTE

Beckemeyer Testifies in Lorimer Hearing

DIDN'T INTEND TO VOTE

For the Senator—He Afterward Changed His Mind—J. W. Holstlaw, Another Democrat, Received $2,500.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—State Representative H. C. J. Beckemeyer, one of those who testified in the trial of Lee O'Neill, "what is all this talk about you vote for Lorimer for senator, took the witness stand before the senatorial investigating committee yesterday. He testified that he voted for Lorimer on May 26, 1909, and that on the evening of May 24, he had been called to the room of minority leader Brown. "Brown said to me," declared the witness, "what is all this talk about you not voting for Lorimer?" "I replied that I thought for a Democrat to vote for Lorimer would kill him, the Democrat, politically at home. Brown told me then that many other Democrats were going to vote for Lorimer and that it would not hurt me. I talked to other Democrats and found that some of them were going to vote for Lorimer, and I decided to do so myself."

The witness then told of going to St. Louis at the request of Brown and receiving $1,000 for his vote. "I met Brown at St. Louis, June 24, 1909, and Brown handed me a roll of money which he said was $1,000. I counted it and found the sum correct. As he handed it to me, Brown said: 'This is Lorimer money.' The witness said that on July 15, he went to St. Louis again and was given $800, by Representative Robert E. Wilson, who, Beckemeyer said, was acting for Brown. The witness said this was his share of the "jack pot." The witness told of meeting other legislators at St. Louis, among them being Representative Shepherd, Michael Link and Joseph Clark.

"Did anyone promise directly or indirectly to pay you for your vote for Senator Lorimer?" asked Attorney Haney.

"No, sir."

Continuing, Beckemeyer declared that his vote for Lorimer was not influenced by any promise of reward.

Senator Bulkley of Connecticut announced that he must return to his home yesterday afternoon to remain several days. The inquiry here will continue during his absence.

WILSON WANTS CULPRIT.

All Wrong Done by a Person; He Wants That Person.

New York, Sept. 30.—Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university and Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey, delivered his first political speech in Jersey City. He gave one or two backhanded slaps at Roosevelt, but on the whole held himself free from personal fights. He said in part:

"I demur from the corruption theory. All wrong to the public is done by some one person. I would find that person. If I got a gun and shot some person—and there are some I would dearly like to shoot—there would be no reason to arrest the gun. I should be arrested, as it is with corporations. "I have heard talk of rich crooks and poor crooks and I suppose there may be medium crooks. The rich crook may be the most dangerous, but I am not interested in separating the sheep from the goats. We need men who recognize no sides."

FARMERS BURN $249,840,728.

This the Value of Firewood Used Annually.

Washington, Sept. 30.—The firewood of the value of $249,840,728 is used in the farms in the towns and small cities, in cities and in mineral operations annually. This value, placed by the United States forest service, represents 85,936,800 cords, estimated to be worth $2.91 a cord. According to the statistics the service has compiled, there is consumed in Massachusetts annually 984,321 cords, of the value of $4,563,661. While the average selling price of wood for the country as a whole is given as $2.91, it is fixed at $4.04 in Massachusetts.

The statistics given out by the forest service are based on information obtained from inquiries sent to 48,000 county and crop correspondents of the bureau of statistics in the agricultural department, supplemented in towns and cities of from 1,000 to 30,000 population by inquiries to representative firms engaged in the coal and wood business, and in cities of over 30,000 population, by reports of special agents of the bureau of the census. Of the total consumption of firewood, seventy million cords, or 81.4 per cent., is used on the farms; 12,615,000 cords, or 14.7 per cent., in the towns and cities with a population of from 1,000 to 30,000; 1,615,000 cords, or 1.9 per cent., in cities of over 30,000 population; and the remainder, or 2 per cent., in mineral operations.

The quantity of firewood used on the farms varies greatly between different parts of the country on account of a number of influences, such as climate, the distance from coal fields, the development of transportation facilities, and the progressiveness of the consumers. The states north of the Ohio river use rather less firewood per farm than those south of it. Though this may at first glance seem strange, because the climate of the northern states is colder than that of the southern states, it is explained largely by the fact that in the North stores burning wood or coal are commonly used, while in the South open fireplaces are more general.

In the New England states and in the south Atlantic states more wood is used per farm than in the middle Atlantic states, which are within a short distance of fine coal fields and which have good transportation facilities. The value of the total quantity of the wood used for fuel in Michigan, Texas, New York, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri and Minnesota, leading states in point of value, exceeded $8,000,000, more than one-third of the value of all the firewood used.

The forest service does not find that there is any decrease in the amount of wood used for fuel. It is pointed out that the greater part of the firewood is obtained from farmers' woodlots, which often have very little value for other purposes, but where good timber is plentiful, much that cut to be used for lumber, cross ties, coopers and similar purposes, is cut for fuel.

HASKELL TRIAL BLOCKED.

Government Unable to Conduct Case Under the Court's Restrictions.

McAlester, Ok., Sept. 30.—The trial of Governor C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma, in the Muskogee town lot case, came to a sudden end yesterday, when the government announced that under the restrictions laid down by the court it would be unable to make out a case against Haskell or any of his co-defendants.

Governor Haskell and three other defendants were charged in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury with "conspiring to defraud the government" in the disposal of town lot sites at Muskogee, Ok. It was charged that by false registration of the names of people scattered over the country they secured title to about 600 lots. The dismissal of all of the cases yesterday was attributed by the government attorneys to their inability to confine their proof to the period of limitation as fixed by federal Judge John A. Marshall.

QUARTERMASTER MISSING

From the Steamer Cymric, Which Docked at Boston Yesterday.

Boston, Sept. 30.—Quartermaster J. Green of the White Star line steamship Cymric either fell overboard accidentally or jumped from the steamer with suicidal intent while the vessel was anchored outside the harbor early yesterday morning. The Cymric arrived below from Liverpool and Queenstown Wednesday night and anchored, awaiting dawn to come up to dock at Charlestown. Quartermaster Green was on watch between midnight and 4 a. m. At two o'clock, it was said on board the boat, Green was sent to get some tea for the bridge officer. He failed to return. Investigation disclosed no trace of him, but the sounding lead, aft, was missing, having been cut from its line. Green was a man upwards of fifty years old, unmarried, and had been in the service for more than a dozen years. His habits were exemplary, it was said.

Yellow on the Walls.

In the course of an entertaining article on "Colony Harmony" in Suburban Life for October, Lois L. Howe says: "A dingy city house in a dark street with little sun was renovated by using yellow throughout. There is no color which admits of so many shades being used together harmoniously as yellow. In this instance, the hall walls had a white ground with green leaves and yellow flowers, and the rooms varied from plain yellow and mode color, through figured papers of all sorts, according to their uses, but yellow was always the dominant tone."

BROOKINS BREAKS RECORD

Flies 192 Miles From Chicago to Springfield

88 MILES WITHOUT STOP

Breaks C. K. Hamilton's Record and Wins $10,000 Prize in Flight Made Yesterday—Flight Without Mishap.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—Aviator Walter Brookins alighted gracefully with his aeroplane in the state fair grounds at 4:27 p. m. yesterday, 7 hours, 48 minutes from Chicago after having sailed his Wright biplane the 192½ miles with two stops.

Starting at 9:15 a. m., he descended at Gilman, Ill., 70 miles from Chicago, at 11:30 a. m., and at Mount Pulaski, Ill., 163 miles from Chicago, at 3:20 p. m.

The first stop was for water, oil and gasoline; the second for supplies and because his pump had broken and the engine became hot. The longest sustained flight was from Gilman to Mt. Pulaski, 88 miles.

Brookins thus broke Charles K. Hamilton's record for sustained cross country flight of 86 miles from New York to Philadelphia. He also made the longest cross country flight in America and thereby won the $10,000 prize offered by the Chicago Record-Herald.

In both places where the aviator alighted, vast throngs gathered. Farmers, tradesmen and residents rushed from their fields, shops and homes to see what an aeroplane looked like at short range.

As Brookins rushed out of the field at Pulaski, one of the small rubber tired wheels, on which he rolls in making headway before a rising, struck a hammock and was wrenched off.

Brookins, not knowing of the accident, rose 2,000 feet and heading for Springfield, whirled away, leaving the Illinois Central special train far behind.

The actual flying time was five hours, 48 minutes for the 192½ miles, an average of 33 miles an hour.

Although he arrived over the grounds at 4:22, it was five minutes before Brookins could land, owing to inadequate police arrangements to keep back the crowds. When he alighted the crowd surged about him, threatening to crush the machine, till he had made a personal appeal to get the throng back.

Asked about the flight, he said: "Why it was nothing, only staying up, that's all. It merely took more time and that's about the only difference from a practice flight. I knew I could make it."

FEARS FOR ARMY-NAVY GAME.

Annapolis Cadets Hope West Point Will Not Again Cancel Game.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 30.—Since the cadets of the military academy have been restricted because they administered a "salute" to an officer of the discipline department and football practice stopped at West Point, there has been some anxiety here about the annual army-navy football game. Last year the game was called off at the request of the military academy, because cadet Byrne of that team met with a fatal accident in the game against Harvard. Should the game be canceled again this year, there would be the most bitter disappointment to thousands, who are all the more anxious for the game this season, as it was omitted last year. Though some apprehension is expressed in the matter by members of the naval contingent, it is not believed that the authorities of the military academy will cancel the game under the circumstances, particularly as the game was called off last year at their request. Under the circumstances of the death of cadet Byrne, the naval academy acquiesced, but it would be felt that any interference this year on account of the cadets' misdoings would be unfair to the naval academy people, who are so much interested in the game.

FOOTBALL MEN

HARD AT WORK

Will Be Weeks Before Worth of New Code Is Proved—Accurate Passing Essential.

This is the year sticklers in the rudiments of football will have their innings. With the direct pass from center a legitimate play the coaches who have been in a habit of rushing their men into intricate formations and trusting to time to bring skillful and clean handling will have to revise all their methods.

As Walter Camp has pointed out, it will probably be weeks before the real worth of the new game can be determined. Jumping in and taking direct passes from center sounds easy enough. Any number of ambitious pigskin hustlers are now willing to offer even money that there never will be discovered anything half so elusive as a football.

Until the teams are thoroughly drilled in the rudiments the new game is bound to be harder on the teams than the old. It was hard enough to develop good centers when they had only an occasional direct pass to make for a kick. Under the new order of things it is probable that almost every pass will go direct from center to the carrier.

Look For Many Fumbles.

The chances for fumbling are infinite. It will take time for a vast majority of the centers to get their passes, many of which will be made at all sorts of angles, under control. Misunderstood signals, too, will be

ROWE TO GO TO ENGLAND.

Trainer Who Made Keene's Colors Famous on Turf to Seek Fame Abroad.

James Rowe, one of the greatest trainers of race horses that the world has ever known, will leave America in the near future for England, where he will handle the stable owned by Herman H. Duryea. Jimmy Rowe, as he is better known, will never be forgotten in turf lore, for he was the man that made the white and blue spotted jacket of James R. Keene famous the world over.

For fourteen years Rowe handled the horses belonging to Keene and within that period won over $2,000,000 for the veteran turfman. During his career with the Keene establishment Rowe has handled the best race horses that ever ran in this country. He broke the world's record of winnings three years ago when Keene gathered in $420,000 in purses.

The cutting down of the Keene stable induced Rowe to secure his new berth.

Veteran Pitcher Expects to Keep on Working.

It has been insinuated that Cy Young, the veteran pitcher of the Cleveland Americans, intends to make this his last year in baseball. Cy, however, denies having made any such announcement, nor does he care to state what his plans are for the future.

"I have never told any one that this would be my last year in baseball," said Cy recently. "I have not given the future any thought at all. I think I am just as good now as I ever was, and I still like the game. Of course I am not going to stay in it forever, but have not announced my retirement."
